ONE COPY—ONE CENT.

SHE WAS UDDY DITY.
In elbow sleeves and elbow gloves
And a bow hat,
She's clad just like all other doves;
Be sure of that.
She feels uncomfortable and stiff
Beneath her load.
She looks a sight, but what's the d-d
She's a la mode.
To network waists and network hose
She stoutly clings;
And network veils and goodness knows
What other things.
An elbow-network dream, ye gods!
She takes the road.
She looks a sight, but what's the odds?
She's a la mode.

Turtle soup tonight at Burgoyne & Mitchell's. This is the last of the season—a kind of farewell affair. Come and join the crowd.

Regular prayer-meeting service at the Third Street M. E. Church this evening at 7:30. Every member and friend of the Church is requested to be present.

Miss Emma Brenner and sister, Mrs. Otto, of Front street have been entertaining three of their cousins—Mr. George Zingerle of Trenton, Mo., and Misses Rose and Catherine Zingerle of Madisonville, Cincinnati. The two former have left for the Jamestown Exposition, New York City and other interesting points. Miss Rose will remain their guest for some time.

Mr. William McMillen, who resides with his family in East Sixth street, says that on several occasions members of his family have had narrow escapes from being shot by reckless handlers of guns. This morning while the family were at breakfast, a random shot from the hillside came hurtling through an open window and barely missed his wife and baby. Of course the shots are stray ones and not intended to do injury to Mr. McMillen, nevertheless the practice is a dangerous one and should be stopped before some one is injured or killed. Several number 4 shot were picked up off the floor from the discharge this morning. It is a fine to discharge fire arms within the city limits.

COOLING—STRENGTHENING.

The demand for Grape-Juice has been growing year by year and now it has become quite a staple article. Its merit as a strengthener is well known. We sell FERDELL, the best brand on the market at 15 and 50 cents a bottle. Try it. It is unfermented.

TOBACCO ROLLING

Into Market—1,700,000 Pounds of the Mason County Weed in the Farmers' Pool

Equity tobacco is coming in at a rapid rate. Over 1,700,000 pounds of prized tobacco ready for the market is now stored in warehouses in this city.

There remains in the county about 3,000,000 pounds yet to be prized and delivered to the various warehouses.

The tobacco growers of Mason county are almost tumbling over themselves in their haste in signing up the 1907 crop. Over 5,500 acres have already been signed and the work goes bravely on.

JUST LIKE PA.

One of the army officers stationed at Governor's Island is noted for the brimstone epithets with which he interpolates his conversation; even in his domestic table talk there are occasional flashes. He also has the English habit of clipping the top off his breakfast egg with a sharp clip of his knife and eating it out of the shell.

The other morning his six-year-old son thought that he would "do as pa does." Unnoticed by his parents or the servants, he picked up an egg and gave it an unpracticed but sturdy little swat in the midriff. Result: One egg-bespattered youngster; ditto one tablecloth.

"Son!" exclaimed pa, sternly.

"My son!" chorused ma, in what was intended to be as stern a voice.

"I couldn't help it, ma," piped the young hopeful.

"That damn cook filled the egg too full."

THIRTY INNINGS

The Longest Game of Base Ball on Record 57 Clean Shut-outs

The longest game of baseball in the history of the sport was played in Cleveland Thursday, when the Brooklyn A. C. and the East End All Stars battled for thirty innings.

A few weeks ago a twenty-eight luning game was played by two school teams in Boston.

The thirty-inning battle lasted five hours and fifty minutes.

Each side used two pitchers.

Pitcher Leroy, of the Brooklyn A. C., was the star of the great battle.

He struck out twenty-one men in eighteen innings, and made four of the eight hits which his side got.

Two were double and another was a home run, which came in the thirtieth inning, with two on bases, giving the Brooklyn the three runs which won. Leroy easily disposing of the All Stars in the last half of the thirtieth.

57 Innings were played without a run being scored.

THE LOVER AND THE HUSBAND

By WINIFRED GRAHAM.

Behold a man and a woman. A pathway white with the milky pallor of the moon. Shadows lurking on every side, emblematical of their two lives.

Lovers. Oh, yes—or why was her cheek stained red as the roses sleeping within reach of her fingers, which were locked in the man's palm? He tried to speak, but his voice was choked by emotion. This was their good-by.

The woman raised her eyes, her lips and the anguish of parting was forgotten in the ecstasy of a long embrace.

"I shall remember," she whispered; "always! You and I have been more than all the world to each other—you and I!"

These three words were repeated in lingering accents that faltered and ended in a sigh.

"Stay," he answered, passionately. "Life is only an hour; take all that it can give while love is in your soul. To-morrow the summer may be over, the flowers will shrivel up and we shall be old."

"And age spells death," murmured the woman, with a shudder.

The man gazed rapturously at the beauty of her face. How pure it looked in the pale light! What a mask, what a mockery!

Yet, good or evil, he loved her, and the fragrance of the summer night was creeping into his very being; everything spoke of hitherto undreamed possibilities.

"Why must you go?" he asked, fiercely. "You have no tie in New York! Your home? Bah! What is a woman's home before she marries? Stay and be my wife!"

The woman withdrew her fingers and passed them over her brow.

The grass was wet with dew, and there were drops of agony upon her forehead.

One word broke hoarsely from her lips: "No!"

"If you love me, why in the name of—"

But she clasped her hands, entreating silence.

"Ask no explanations. Would that I had never come here to lose my soul in yours. I return to-morrow; it is inevitable—I have two things to seek. Heaven only knows if I shall find them."

"What?" he questioned.

"Rest and repentance!"

As she spoke she broke away, rushed wildly on till the shadows hid her white-gowned figure and she was lost in mystery.

The following day she departed and the man saw her no more.

He only treasured a few parched rose leaves and her address in New York city.

But the fire of love burned still in his soul, and at last he wrote to the woman who had said "No."

"I must follow you"—he penned the lines feverishly—"to your home, dearest, and plead again for the love you once gave and afterward denied. Remember your own words: 'We have been all the world to each other—you and I.' Telegraph me the single syllable, 'Come,' and as fast as the cars will bring me I will come to kneel at your feet."

A woman was lying dead, with roses white and yellow in her hands. She was beautiful in death as in life. She had found what she sought—rest and repentance!

Beside her still image sat her husband, his head bent and one hand stretched across his face, hiding the awful expression thereon. But the veins on that sinewy hand seemed bursting through the flesh, while his parted lips were dry and bloodless.

Between his trembling fingers he held a letter, addressed to his dead wife in her maiden name. He had only just opened it.

The morning's mail made the cold form of marble beauty horrible in his eyes. Vengeance was turning his soul to gall, mingled with the intense jealousy of the bereaved.

"He shall follow her to her home," he muttered, crumpling her lover's letter with suppressed passion.

Then he wrote the telegram: "Come."

Two men stood face to face. A lover and a husband.

One with hope in his heart, the other maddened by his wrongs.

"You have come for my wife," he said slowly. "She is not here, but you shall go to her."

The lover staggered back and fell heavily with a groan to the earth.

Only a cloud of smoke rose between his body and the woman's husband.

No horror crept through the murderer's veins.

"They are together now," he said, "in the land of falsehood and treachery. Let them love there if they can."

Two days later the police received a detailed account of the crime, written by the slayer's hand, telling them where to find the murdered man.

"You need not seek for me," he wrote, in conclusion. "I have gone where no one will discover me. Justice has been done, and that is enough."

Here the writing ceased abruptly, and the two men the woman had deceived were buried in oblivion.

By No Means.

Because beauty is only skin deep it is not necessary to believe that every pretty woman is shallow.

BOGGS.

Rev. and Mrs. W. J. Shelton of Mt. Carmel were here Sunday and Monday.

R. Edwin Boggs and family returned Saturday from a visit in Scott county.

J. P. Nash and family of Maysville were visiting relatives in these parts the first of this week.

Rev. C. C. Gould will preach at Ebenezer Presbyterian Church next Sunday morning at 11 o'clock.

William Mason, who has been working at King's Mills, Ohio, came home the other day with a bride, who was Miss Cora Brady. They will return to King's Mills to reside.

This neighborhood is somewhat elated over the prospects of having a first class Graded School taught at Ebenezer Church this fall by two ladies from New York. The term will probably continue nine months.

Robby Rhinehart, a C. and O. operator at Greenup, was drowned while bathing in the river Sunday. It is said that heart trouble was the cause. He was the son of W. H. Rhinehart of near Farris, and the remains were brought home Monday and from thence they were brought here Tuesday morning for interment in Ebenezer Cemetery. The funeral service was conducted by Rev. C. C. Gould. The whole neighborhood was shocked by the unfortunate occurrence.

During the storm Sunday night, lightning struck the clothes-line in William Hunt's yard, one end of which was fastened to a post and the other to the corner of the kitchen. The post was rooted up, and a hole torn in the wall of the kitchen, some dishes were broken and other damage done. During the same storm, several trees near here were struck by lightning.

Rev. C. C. Gould, formerly Pastor of Ebenezer Presbyterian Church, but now of Buchanan, is visiting friends here, and collecting geological specimens for two Eastern Universities. Since leaving here twenty years ago, Rev. Gould has figured rather prominently in the Secret Service of Uncle Sam. He has also written a very interesting pamphlet, entitled "Who Were the Mound Builders," in which he clearly substantiates the theory that the Mound Builders were the Phoenicians, and came from Phoenicia. He further proves that Free Masonry existed in that ancient time among the Phoenicians and Mound Builders. Rev. Gould is now en route to his native county in Illinois to attend a homecoming reunion of the native citizens, but before he leaves Kentucky he will visit Maysville in the interest of his geological observations and his little book.

PLUMVILLE.

Mr. James Crawford of Newport is visiting home folks.

Mr. C. B. Wilson of near Pleasant Ridge is quite ill. Dr. Winder is his attending physician.

Mrs. E. P. Forman arrived home Saturday, after a few days visit with her sister, Mrs. Oscar Crawford, at Covington.

Mr. Amos Wilson of Pleasant Ridge celebrated the Fourth with us, a welcome guest of Mr. A. L. Redman at Orchard Farm.

Born, June 24th, to Mr. and Mrs. Charles Day of the Stonelick vicinity, a son. Mrs. Day was formerly Miss Virgie Yancey.

Misses Betá and Belle Bean have returned to their home, after a very enjoyable week's visit with the Misses Wedding at Maysville.

Messdames John Bradford and William Ryan and their little daughters of Forest avenue, Maysville, were recent guests of their mother, Mrs. Anna Day.

The new Prescher, Rev. L. Allison, preached at Mt. Hebron Church the first Sunday in July, his first sermon at that place. He succeeds Rev. Wiley, deceased.

FEARIS.

Thermometer 92° seems to be warm enough. The rains came too late to finish setting tobacco in old ground.

Campmeeting in Mower Park was well attended the first Sunday.

Miss Ada Barnes of West Virginia is visiting her uncle, John Malone, and family.

J. Wilson Farris is home from the city, where he is employed on the streetcar lines.

W. H. Garrett of Manchester, Paul Gattise and Samuel Williams of Burtonville attended the G. A. R. meeting here Saturday.

At the last regular meeting of the G. A. R. Post, committees were appointed for the reunion and named August 23d and 24th to hold it.

Colonel Thomas A. Davis and Colonel M. C. Hutchins are especially invited to attend the reunion in Mower Park in the year of our Lord, 1907, August 23d and 24th.

Robert, son of W. H. Reinhardt of this place, was drowned while bathing near Greenup Sunday evening. The remains were brought here Monday morning and the interment took place Tuesday morning at Ebenezer Cemetery, near Cottageville.

The property loss in Louisville caused by the storm Tuesday afternoon is estimated at $300,000.

BRUTAL SHOOTING

Thomas Russell Pours a Load of Shot Into Willis Laycock Tuesday Near Dover

While filled with Ripley whisky a brutal and unprovoked shooting scrape occurred near Dover at the old covered bridge on Lees Creek last Tuesday afternoon.

Thomas Russell, a blacksmith, aged 63, while frenzied with liquor, and without provocation, turned loose a shotgun into the body of Willis Laycock, aged 28, son of George W. Laycock.

The men had been to Ripley and both were drinking and when at the shop of Russell at the old covered bridge they got into an altercation. Laycock started to leave when Russell pushed the barrels of a shotgun through the window and fired at Laycock. The gun was only 8 feet away from his victim and the heavy charge of shot tore out the right side of Laycock making a cavity one could lay his arm in.

Laycock was hurried to Dover and given medical attention and may recover, though horribly wounded.

Russell was held under $500 bond before Squire Frazee for his appearance at Circuit Court.

Russell is quiet and peaceable when sober, but a bad man when drunk. His brother, Joe Russell, shot and killed "Tiff" Jennings near the same place a number of years ago.

Young Laycock is a brother of Moses Laycock, who recently died at Jerome, Arizona, and was to return there himself this week.

Dover Precinct is "local option," but more whisky is consumed there than ever before.

A LASTING EFFECT.

This Evidence Should Prove Every Claim Made for Doan's Kidney Pills in Maysville.

Relief from the pains and aches of a bad back is always welcome to every backache sufferer; but to cure a lame, weak or aching back is what's wanted. Cure it so it will stay cured. It can be done. Here's the strongest evidence to prove it:

C. L. Hubbard, employed in Cahill's grocery, Cox Building, and living at 325 West Third street, Maysville, Ky., says:

"As I stated in a testimonial given in 1900, Doan's Kidney Pills brought me positive relief from inflammation of the bladder and a disturbed action of the kidneys. After some time I felt a slight return of the trouble but again used Doan's Kidney Pills and found complete relief. Now, after nearly five years I feel able to recommend Doan's Kidney Pills with even greater confidence than before. The results of its use in my case have been very satisfactory."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents a box; Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.
